9. Mayor/Council Announcements:

(Timestamp 00:03:52)

Mayor Stear gave a quick COVID-19 update. He referenced the website CrushtheCurve.com as a place to get information on testing.

Council President Buban-Vonder Haar asked about Cruse the Curve anti-body testing and accuracy.

Mayor Stear said they weren't 100% sure someone could not get it again. That might be because it could show someone has an antibody when they didn't. There was still some question as to the accuracy of those however having the testing did give some hope. The least accurate test was testing to find out if someone actually has the virus. There was a 7 to 9-day timeframe and if someone was not tested in that time frame it could show they didn't have COVID when they actually did. That was when the next test for contagiousness came into play. They were thinking that might go as long as 20 days if someone had it. Testing was still somewhat questionable but folks seemed to be somewhat happy with the accuracy they were getting from them.

City Attorney Bill Gigray noted he had just sent in his legislative report and had asked City Clerk Chris Engels to distribute it to Mayor, Council, and the Department Heads.
